PEACE MEET HELD UP BECAUSE LOCAL COPS HOLD THEIR DELEGATE

Master Wilson of Washington D. C. now sojourning in Ray, Pa. with Master Orlando of Italy, not Little and Master Dav L. George and Master M. Clem Enceau and other greater and lesser national lights must be pretty peeved today with the Janesville police. All this peace business is held up. This can't be done because of the Janesville department starting their cleanup.

John Dusowski, Watertown, is held at the police station and swears that not a thing can be done in Paris till he gets there. John is held so good all he can do is wiggle his fingers and toes and yawn.

John started for the peace conference sometime yesterday and planned to stop enroute at 24 Wall street as John D. wanted him to take over his Standard interests. John figured he could carry the matter as a side issue to the peace business.

The white dove delegate and coming financial king also figured in dickering in railroads and was going over to Washington to see times on taking the boulevards of steel out of the rail administration hands. When John became railroad king, he'd send the Olympia and Columbia to Seattle and Chicago and vice versa through Janesville and the St. Paul line. Chicago northwest trains of Master Alva Hemming road would also coal and water at the Bower City. Milwaukee wouldn't be on the map at all.

John was such an enthusiastic that he got as far as Gold street on the St. Paul flyer which leaves here for Chicago about 5 p. m. They stopped the passenger down at the cowhides and the Janesville police. John was suddenly inquired of the conductor, when the later called "Tickets," if he knew who he was and promptly proceeded to get acquainted by introducing him to the police enroute to the peace conference and to hurry up this peace limited he was on; as he was late then.

John spent the night in a straight jacket. Doctors will examine him this afternoon.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

HER IDEAL.

Emma was going to study music. This definite ambition on Emma's part spread a contagion of resolution among the others. Louise wanted to be an actress. Ethel Putnam, who lived with two aunt maiden aunts and a plant material cat named Street, wanted to be a nurse. And so, social aspirations. She was going to marry a millionaire and have horses and carriages and servants and clothes and grand receptions and a box at the opera.

Annie still held to Aunt Maggie's her ideal of independence and prosperity. But when she told the girls she was going to be a doctor, they all laughed. That was no way to get rich and rise in this social world. Even Rose Rothberg, Annie's old friend, who had the most slightly westward like the Hargans and was still a neighbor, was unfavorably disposed toward the typewriting idea.

"I'm going to keep a store," said Rose. A delicatessen and candy store, she added with two-fold magnificence. "My father, he says, if you want to make a good living, you should trade in something everybody has gotta have. People have gotta eat, she went on with creditable logic. "Leave us keep a store together, Annie, you and me, yes? It's better."

The ideas were all good, Annie admitted. But her aunt Maggie was a living, breathing example of success, according to Annie's standards. She told her Aunt Maggie so that what- ever she did was touched with idealism. If Aunt Maggie had wanted to be a milliner, instead of a secretary in a big publishing house, millinery would have been Annie's goal. Besides, Annie hugged to herself the knowledge that she was further along in her ambitions than the other girls. She already knew a part of her trade-to-be. She had never owned a typewriter, but she had a typewriter machine on her aunt's businesslike desk. Her small fingers could now actually find their swift way over the magic keyboard. And it had all come to her in a flash of play when she was so little that she had to sit on the dictionary and a pillow to reach up.

When Annie was eight her compositions on Aunt Maggie's typewriter usually took the form of a letter to mother. Nowadays it was different. Her 13-year-old ideas were, like her fingers, bigger, more ambitious. She now preferred to write maxims from her copybook and verses from songs she sang in school. She admired all the handsome Spencerian legends such as "Honesty is the best policy" and "Perseverance is the thief of time." But there were others, she liked better.

"Perseverance conquers all things" was one. Annie traced this with its Latin pains, not always very letter perfectly, shading the down strokes, making the "a" and the "e" neatly plump and symmetrical, and finishing with a decisive period. "There is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so—Shakespeare. Here indeed was an inspiration. It bore out her daddy's many words. "You can do anything, Nannie, if you want it enough, and keep at it, and don't lose hope."

There was another one, too. "As a man thinketh, so he is." The same promise again—you can do anything, have anything, by hanging onto the idea and working toward it. Her father, her aunt, her copybook and this man, Shakespeare, all agreed. It must be true, then. It was very comforting.

BLACK FROCKS ARE EVER FASHIONABLE

By ELOISE.

Dainty, indeed, is the frock which can boast of a bit of lace or net this season. Chantilly lace, black and white, and embroidered net are two very popular trimmings for the afternoon and summer dinner gowns. Black is a very fashionable color for the late spring and early summer (this year, ranking almost last). The colors which are a bit more popular are beige and some of the French blues. The reason for this is that black is a bit hard to wear and unless one is very careful of the style and material, the effect is apt to be either depressing or decidedly old-fashioned.

This afternoon or restaurant frock is far from producing either of these effects. It is one of the snuggest and most youthful models which has been developed in black. A three-tiered skirt and long bloused waist which is belted at the hips is fashioned of a cordian plaited chiffon, the yolk and sleeves being very short and full. The black silk moire sash which forms the hip girdle and is tied in the back. One of the most youthful features of the entire costume.

The rough straw hat trimmed in wheat is of a rich shade of Victory red and is worn with telling effect to complete the outfit.

or game, alone or in classified combination.

Brown and white stock, consommé and broths. Every home where meat is used should be provided with a soup kettle, into which should go the extra bones and pieces as well as left overs of gravies, and the water, in which vegetables are cooked.

The lower part of the shank, called the shin, cut from either fore or hind quarter, is one of the best cuts to use for soup.

It is well to cook a small piece of brain meat with this to add to the flavor. This may be omitted and be replaced from the soup, shredded, seasoned with grated onion, salt, pepper and celery salt, and molded into a bowl with enough of the soup stock to moisten it. Cover and press down with a weight. When thoroughly cooled, this may be sliced down and served at jellied meat.

Brown Soup Stock—Six pounds shin of beef, three stalks celery, water, one-half teaspoon peppercorns (whole peppercorns), six cloves, one-half bay leaf, three sprigs thyme, one sprig majoran, two sprigs parsley, one-half cup each of carrot, turnip, onion and celery cut in dice, one tablespoon salt. Wipe the beef and cut the lean meat in inch cubes. This exposes a large amount of the surface and the juices are more easily drawn out. Brown the meat gives the stock a better color. Allow the meat to stand in cold water draws out the juices, which give flavor to the soup. Heat the whole gradually to the boiling point, cover and simmer for six hours, keeping below boiling point during the cooking; add the vegetables, salt and spice the last hour of cooking.

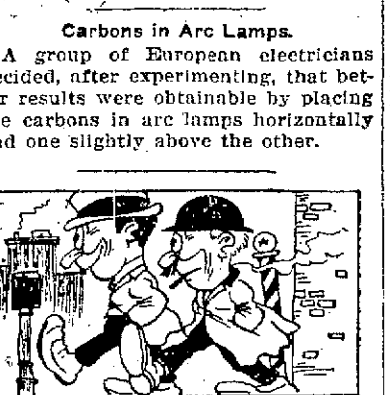

If the stock is desired clear for any special purpose, the soup may be strained, but usually it is as well to leave the vegetables in. With this soup stock as a basis the flavor may be varied as much as desired.

DISCOVERIES.

Apions for Rough Work—Someone has discovered how to make an apron out of burlap and they are fine for all kinds of rough work such as housecleaning and on wash days. Pick out close woven burlap, wash and boil; put in the water you wash them in so as to get the letters out, as there are sometimes printed letters on them. When nice and clean make a big shirt apron, and have the belt of cotton cloth. Have it meet at the back so as to cover dress, put a pocket on and a bib and a nice hem at the bottom. They save your good aprons and dresses and are easily washed.

Carbons in Arc Lamps.

A group of European electricians decided, after experimenting, that better results were obtainable by placing the carbons in arc lamps horizontally and one slightly above the other.

AN ACCIDENTAL KNITTING.

As an accident, I ask you, sir, whether your daughter has any domestic accomplishments? Father—Yes, she sometimes knits her brows.

SIDE TALKS

—By—
RUTH CAMERON

HOW DO YOU TREAT ADVICE?

She followed and the whole home life was made miserable. From what the woman said I judged that the man was really trying to do the right thing. She also said that she loved suspicion—what should she do?

I told her to make herself attractive.

I wrote her a long letter saying just what you would have said—that while I could not blame her for feeling suspicious her constant display of it was evidently breaking up the home. If she wanted to keep her husband, she simply must make up her mind to conquer all manifestations of her jealousy and suspicion and be just as attractive as she knew how.

She came back at me with a most indignant letter. That was easy enough to say, she wrote, but she knew I couldn't do it and she'd just like to see me try. Besides, what had her husband done to deserve that she should try to make herself attractive? It was he that should be trying to make up, etc., etc.

Plainly she had no intention of taking my advice.

But she wouldn't get what she wanted.

Now all of what she said was true but didn't help the situation one bit. Unfortunately what ought to be, and what is, in this world, are two quite different things, and if you want to face things as they are, her husband's affections had plainly been shaken. What she wanted was to hold them, and her eyes questioning and accusations would not do it.

You remember the critic who had said that a certain book was not good and was told that he could not write one half so good. "Don't mind my criticism," but while I cannot lay an egg yet I think I can tell a bad one."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE BILL DRAWS CROWD

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, May 9.—The Skogmo bill permitting Christian Science treatment under the workmen's compensation act, was heard before the assembly committee Thursday afternoon when so many members of the Christian Science church appeared that it was necessary to move from the committee room to the assembly parlor.

M. P. Richardson, Janesville, attorney, stated that 1,000 letters favoring the passage of the bill had been filed with the committee. He said there are about 100,000 members of the Christian Science church in Wisconsin today and that the number is constantly increasing. He had three practical reasons ready to testify before the committee.

W. N. Weldon, Milwaukee, declared he was an employer of about 1,000 men and although he did not speak for his firm and he was the only member of the firm who subscribed to the faith, he was personally in favor of permitting injured employees to choose the method of treatment under the workmen's compensation act.

Several others spoke in favor of the passing of the bill. The committee took the matter under advisement, and will report to the assembly.

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulled coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

The Broom Problem Is Easy

A broom that outwears several old style wire wound brooms is the one you want. Little Polly represents the new idea of broom making. For fifty years brooms have worn down to a point at the tip, because in wire wound brooms the fibres cannot be measured before being built into the broom. To trim them off after the broom is made, means sacrificing the softest, finest part.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I became engaged to a young man before he went to France. I didn't want to become engaged when he went away, but he begged me to and said he would be able to leave with a much better feeling. We had been friends for a long time and in all our acquaintance I had never thought I could love him.

When I became engaged I thought that I was doing my bit. It seemed such a shame to let a dear friend go across, feeling that he had no one back home who loved him.

We corresponded for a while and then he stopped writing. I worried terribly and wrote to Washington to see if he had been killed, but there was no report of it. The strange thing is that after he went away I found I loved him more than I had ever known.

Now he has returned. He did not tell me that he was coming and he has not been to see me since he got back. I have written him many times, but he has not answered me. He is in love with a Y. W. girl when he was over there. He talks about her all the time.

When we meet on the street, he speaks to me, but does not act as if we were engaged.

I am heartbroken and want to win back his love. Shall I write him a letter? Please advise me, how I can make him explain his action to me.

HEART-BROKEN.

You have made yourself think that you are in love with the young man, when in reality you are not. During his absence you have an ideal around him and you are in love with that ideal.

He is acting in a most ungentlemanly way. If I were you I would let him go and appear to be indifferent to an explanation. Probably the rumor about the Y. W. girl is true and he is afraid to tell you. No matter what his reason for changing his

HEALTH TALKS

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

A DENTIST TALKS ABOUT TEETH.

When readers propound queries too difficult for the massive intellect of the conductor of this column he speaks around and finds a better qualified colleague somewhere who consents to supply the desired information. A skillful dentist, whose work is chiefly extraction and X-ray work done for patients referred to him by medical men and specialists, has answered several important questions for today's talk. Incidentally, the foresaid massive intellect beholds a thousand colleagues willy-nilly to the substance of these Health Talks, although it is terribly embarrassing to confess the debt.

1. Should nerves be killed in teeth before extracting them?

"Be no means. Dead teeth decay. It is about the roots of dead teeth that 'silent' abscesses develop. Nowadays the vitality of a tooth can be retained by means of new filling materials. I have in my own mouth two of the best made bridges, but no devitalized teeth."

2. Should all teeth having abscesses be removed?

"All abscesses and molars having abscesses should be removed. Front teeth with abscesses may be treated by the dentist, after X-ray plates have been made and root amputation done. However, if any systemic condition, possibly dependent on the mouth infection is present, not only all teeth showing abscesses, but all severely decayed teeth should be extracted."

3. Should impacted teeth be removed—such as impacted or unerupted wisdom teeth or impacted eye teeth?

"Yes, by all means. An impacted tooth is often found to be the cause of neuritis, headache or earache."

Now, then, Doctor, just between colleagues, with all your experience in making X-ray pictures of the teeth in the search of a focus of infection in the cause of valvular heart lesions, neuritis, headaches, appendicitis, duodenal and gastric ulcer, so-called "rheumatism," bronchitis, troubles, asthma, etc., as you voluminously recite now, don't you regret having done much of the work?

"Regret it?" You don't mean that seriously? Why, of course the discovery and eradication of a septic focus does not insure a cure in every case, so certain persons are bound to be disappointed. But there is always the satisfaction of knowing that a tooth with an abscess at its root were in perfect health. If it has not already caused trouble, it is very likely to cause trouble of some kind in the future. That is a surgical principle which stands by itself. So there is nothing to regret. On the contrary, in this work one sees so many happy results that the work is a constant inspiration."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Enlarged Oil Glands

Some time ago you printed a recipe for enlarged oil glands on the face. Will you kindly reprint that recipe?

(M. E. W.)—Apply each night, after a vigorous scrubbing with hot water and soap (preferably a stimulating soap such as the "Pine" or "Green Soap") and repeated rinsings to remove all soap, this lotion:

Sublimed Sulphur
Alcohol
Compound tincture of lavender
Glycerin
Compound water: equal parts of the five (5) ingredients.

Allow this to remain on the skin over night. Rub off with a soft cloth.

To Relieve Itching After Menstruation

Kindly tell me what is good to relieve itching and fullness and tightness after menstruation.

ANSWER—Six rails before breakfast.

Our Cure for Worms

Will you kindly send your cure for worms, as I am bothered with many of them? (C. S.)

ANSWER—The best cure I know is the one I use. I use a doctor's one that will do the work.

H. B. P.

Will you kindly tell me what high blood pressure is, its causes, symptoms and results? (Alice M.)

ANSWER—The blood in the arteries is under a certain pressure. This pressure is maintained by the action of the heart and the blood vessels. In various disease conditions the pressure may be too high or too low. High blood pressure is not in itself a source of danger. I do not feel free to publish symptoms. They are misleading to any but a physician.

M. Brocki

Corporal Mieczyslaw Brocki, Co. B, 16th Inf., 1st Division. Here is a Pole who showed them something. South of Soissons on July 31st, Corporal Brocki was very much in action. He came to the conclusion that the Germans had too many machine guns. He picked out the two that were causing the heaviest losses to his company and went after them. With extraordinary heroism, single-handed, he captured those two particular guns and every Boche pertaining thereto. His citation, which brought him the Distinguished Service Cross, says that this was only one incident of Corporal Brocki's activities from July 15th to 25th. (Copyright, 1919.)

ENFORCEMENT BILL RIDDLED BY WETS; DRY'S TURN IS ON

(By FRED L. HOLMES)
Madison, May 9.—The senate affairs committee dry enforcement bill which had the endorsement of the federal Anti-Saloon league was so amended with amendments by wet sympathizers in the Wisconsin assembly Thursday evening that the dry forces finally turned on the measure and killed it by a vote of 23 to 6. The fight is not over as two other bills are pending in the senate and one other bill before the house. The two amendments of the wet forces which were incorporated into the bill made the bill in effect a referendum to the people of the state at the November election in 1920, 11 months after the federal prohibition amendment. The original bill provided for the appointment of a state excise commissioner for the enforcement of the dry regime.

Seven amendments were offered and acted upon as follows:
By Kanev.—The enforcement measure will be inoperative if the federal prohibition amendment is held illegal by the United States supreme court. Adopted by viva voce vote.

By Downs.—The attorney general, and not a special excise commissioner, shall be ex officio prohibition commissioner of Wisconsin to enforce the dry law. The sale of patent medicines and extracts are permitted. Adopted 52 to 42.

By Week.—Providing that a court jury shall pass on the question as to whether the liquor drunk made the man intoxicated. Withdrawn.

By Young.—If congress shall make a different definition of intoxicating liquor than that provided in this bill, the definition of congress shall govern. Adopted 55 to 38.

By Simpson.—This bill shall be submitted by referendum to a vote of the people at the general election in 1920. Adopted 53 to 38.

By Donnelly.—Beer containing one to three per cent alcohol shall not be considered prima facie intoxicating. The courts shall pass on the degree of intoxication of any man brought before them. Killed 51 to 41.

By Otto.—The question of whether people in the state desire beer containing three percent of alcohol or under as an intoxicating beverage shall also be submitted to a vote of the people at the fall election of 1920. Adopted 58 to 46.

The Kanev, Downs, Young amendments were supported by the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league. The Simpson amendment got the full support of the wet interests in the legislature. When the Simpson amendment was adopted the bill was so riddled that it was of no further use and it was then that Assemblyman Cee asked to have the measure killed.

DEEP WATERWAY BILL ASKS FOR STATE AID

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, May 9.—George Bruce, secretary of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, appeared before the joint legislative finance committee Thursday afternoon and asked for the appointment of a commission to cooperate with like commissions from Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania to work for deep waterway from the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence river to the Atlantic.

"When the matter finally comes to congress it will be bitterly opposed by New York, Buffalo, Philadelphia, Boston and probably New Orleans," he said.

He said it was proposed to create a fund of $50,000 to be used in this educational work in the next two years. The Minnesota legislature has already appropriated $12,500 and a like amount is needed from Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. The Michigan legislature is expected to make the appropriation shortly but the Illinois fund will be raised in Chicago rather than go to the Illinois legislature and open up the old fight for the Lakes to Gulf waterway.

Mr. Bruce asked the committee to recommend a bill creating a state commission, and to make an appropriation of $12,500 for that purpose.

Mr. Bruce stated briefly that the construction of the proposed deep waterway would permit ocean going vessels to come direct to Milwaukee, Sheboygan, Manitowish, Superior, Duluth, Chicago, etc., and would bring those ports at least 500 miles closer to the eastern markets and mean a saving in freight rates of approximately 6 cents, which in but a short time would amount to millions of dollars.

To See Is to Believe.

"If I come in your yard will your dog bite me?" asked Weary Willie. "I'm not certain, mister," replied the woman of the house, "but the man who sold him to us says that he'll chase a tramp 10 miles without stopping. But I'm not going to believe it till I see it done."—People's Home Journal.

THE WISHING PLANE

"Breaking open the boxes of food and cases of wine they had taken from the treasure ship, the pirates had a great feast. Drunk from the wine, they finally fell to fighting, and while they were quarreling a great storm came up," said Captain Kidd, who, you remember, was telling Jack and Jane about the robbers.

"The Captain and mate having been killed in the fighting there was nobody to order them to haul down the sails and make the ship safe from the storm. Many of the pirates were swept overboard by great waves that washed away everything on the decks and a few minutes later an extra big wave rolled clear over the boat and sank it."

"The treasure went down with it, of course, and lay in the boat until we found it."

"Do you suppose it was Captain Kidd?" asked Jack.

"I don't suppose so," said Captain Kidd, "because Captain Kidd was supposed to have buried all his treasures, and he wasn't drowned."

And then Jack did just what you and I and every other person would do. He said, "Tell us all about him."

An old submarine captain told the children how Captain Kidd was chosen to clear the seas of pirates, hundreds of years ago, after France and England had tried in vain to kill the pirates. But instead of riding the seas of these robbers, Captain Kidd became a bolder and badder pirate than any of them. Nobody knows how many millions of dollars worth of money and diamonds and other precious stones he stole from ships, but he was finally captured and put to death in England. People have tried for ages and ages to find where he hid his treasures, but always have failed.

Jack might have asked Captain Kidd to tell him more pirate stories if Jane hadn't said, "Please, how long before we can open the box and see if it really has anything in it?"

"What would you children like to find in the box?" asked Ladydear.

"First of all I want a long necklace of great big pearls for mother," said Jane. "Then I want a diamond bracelet for you Ladydear, and for myself I want lots of pretty rings and a gold chain for my neck."

"And I want pockets full of gold."

The Approach in Personal Work

By REV. HOWARD W. POPE
Moody Bible Institute,
Chicago

TEXT—Come and see—John 1:48.

In what spirit should personal work be done? Do not give the impression that you consider yourself a better man than the one you are dealing with, or that you regard yourself as an expert in the art of soul-winning. Such an impression will surely defeat your purpose.

The only basis on which one can safely approach another is that of a sinner saved by grace, who, having been saved himself, desires to help his fellow men.

While the personal worker should be humble, yet he must not be lacking in certainty as to his own salvation. It is not necessary that he should know when he became a Christian, but it is very important that he should know that he is a Christian. So long as one is in doubt as to his own standing in Christ, it is utterly useless for him to try to lead others to Christ.

If it be asked: "Can one know surely that he is a Christian?" the answer is, Paul knew that he was saved (II Tim. 1:12), and I John 5:13 shows that God intends that all his children shall know whose children they are. "These things have I written unto you, that ye may know that ye have eternal life." There are three sure proofs of the believer's sonship.

(a) The witness of God's word. Remember that forgiveness of sin is something that takes place in the mind of God, and not in the emotional nature of the believer. Our first and best evidence of any such transaction, then, must be the testimony of God himself. If he names certain conditions upon which he will forgive sin, and I comply with those conditions, I know that my sins are forgiven, because I have God's word for it. If I accept Jesus Christ as my personal Savior, I know that I have become a child of God, because God's word affirms it. It is not a question of how I feel, but of what God says. The feeling may be wholly lacking, and yet the transaction may be none the less real.

(b) The witness of the Spirit. "The Spirit himself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are children of God" (Rom. 8:16). Let it be clearly understood that the witness of God's word is sufficient to prove that one is a child of God, and that, if one does not believe this witness, he makes God a liar (I John 5:10). However, the believer is entitled also to the witness of the Spirit, and he should not rest satisfied until he has it. It is a part of his inheritance in Christ Jesus; and, if he has not received it, he should reverently but persistently inquire the reason why.

In some cases where the witness of the Spirit is lacking it will be found that the person has made no confession of Christ. Matt. 10:32 shows that, when we confess Christ before men, he confesses us before the Father. Rom. 10:9 and I John 5:19 would seem to indicate that, when we confess to the world that we have taken Jesus as our Savior, the Spirit witnesses in our hearts that we are saved.

A friend of mine was accosted by a lady at the close of a service, who told him that she had been trying to lead a Christian life for years, but that she had never enjoyed any assurance. She was a woman of intelligence and refinement. He questioned her carefully, but to all his questions she answered with the utmost frankness and candor that she knew of nothing in her life that was displeasing to God. Finally he asked whether she had ever confessed Christ. To his surprise she answered in the negative. She was waiting until she had the inward assurance that she was saved before she made an outward confession of her faith. He showed her from the Bible that she was reversing God's order, which is first confession, and then the witness of the Spirit. The next night she was in the meeting; and, when an opportunity occurred, she arose and quietly said: "Friends, I wish to make a public confession of my faith in Jesus Christ."

The next day my friend met some one on the street, who inquired whether he had heard about Mrs. —. "No, what about her?"

"Why, last night she went to her neighbor's house, after they had retired, and rang the bell. They opened the window and inquired who was there. She answered: 'It is Mrs. —. I have confessed Christ as my Savior tonight, and I am so happy that I cannot contain myself.'"

(c) The fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22). "The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." This is the evidence that our neighbors will appreciate most, and which ought to be apparent to all. It does not appear at once, however, for fruit grows, and growth requires time, while a gift is bestowed instantly.

Few Free From Errors.

Why not try to look over the other fellow's mistakes? We have been making them ever since Grandfather Adam lost his place in the Garden of Eden.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSONS.

Second Quarter: Lesson VI: Genesis 11:1-24; Romans 1:18-23; James 1:15; May 11, 1919.

The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life in Jesus Christ our Lord. Romans VI, 23.

SIN AND ITS CONSEQUENCES (Temperance Lesson)

Genesis "Third" is a target fairly shot through, not only with the darts of a vulgar infidelity, but also with the arrows of the scholarly criticism. But, after all, the chapter is unharmed. It stands alone in literature. It is helpful toward the solution of an occult problem, the origin of evil. By sound it is accepted as a literal history; by others as a vivid pictorial and poetical description of man's early struggle with evil. "And under other interpretations, Adam and Eve are represented as nobly endowed. They had a happy environment, and were under the direct and daily tutelage of their Maker. But they were on probation. In Eden the problem was solved whether the world would persist in choosing to obey God or not. A test was given. It was simple, but adequate, and exactly suited to their estate. Of the fruit of one attractive and conspicuous tree, the word of God was forbidden. The prohibition was so explicit, peremptory, and often repeated, that inadvertence was out of the question. "Thou shalt not" was fully written upon the word of God. A persistent adherence was a visible and potent sign to God and angels, good and evil, of their conscious and voluntary loyalty to God. Under this Adam came to God, and God gave him the promise to supply grace sufficient; but Adam, on his side, must choose to keep obeying God. "We have no means of knowing how long the happy Eden life continued, but it was probably that which places his midway between the savage and the sage. He was a laborer, but suffered not the excessive weariness and vexation incident to labor. He was busy, but not in a dull, grinding, gulping the triple kingdoms—earth, air, water; vegetable, animal, mineral. In the evening hour, when activities cease and the human heart is evermore in communion with his Creator who corrected his mistakes and inspired him with new courage and love. "At length, at some period when man's faculties were at their peak, he was tempted by the serpent, for enduring the ordeal most favorable, a crucial test was permitted. The outcome of the ordeal was not predetermined. He might have persisted in his love, trust, obedience toward God. He ought to have. The odds were not against him. He had had overmastering examples of God's goodness, constancy, wisdom, love. He ought to have been loyal. "An overweening vanity determined man to lift himself in the scale of being, even if he must needs make the sacrifice of a broken communion with his Father, men of a loving Heavenly Father, men of a loving Heavenly Father, men of a loving Heavenly Father. "The deed was done already in subjective intent, in the deliberate and pleasurable entertainment of the suggestion of doing it. The flesh and eye, already heated and pride had put the finishing touch. The manual act of reaching, touching, plucking, was only the objective complement of the mental determination, the other hand, which rolled on Adam with its crushing weight. "Their eyes were opened, but not to see themselves exalted to the lofty plane of their Maker, but fallen infinitely below the plane on which they were standing before. The normal relation between the soul and body was destroyed; so that the body ceased to be any longer a pure instrument of the spirit. "The body was now a hindrance to their quest of pleasure, and ceased to be like unconscious, unembarrassed children. "Out of the shadows of Eden, in which with a silly, ecstatic, like instinct, they sought to hide themselves from the omniscience of their Maker, God called them. It was a fearful meeting. The reality of man's fall is evidenced by his changed bearing. The frankness of innocence is gone. When fairly cornered by his omniscient Prosecutor, with his historic cowardice of sin, he seeks to cast the blame directly upon the companion whom up to that moment, he had loved devotedly and sheltered consecrately, and indirectly upon the beneficent Being who had given her to him. "Across the darkest gloom of this shattered paradise God let one ray of hope. "The seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head." The age-long strife just then beginning, with its varying fortunes, between the good and the evil seed, shall finally cease when the Man of Calvary puts his bitten heel upon the serpent's head.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN Modernize this lesson. Translate it into the language of today. Every boy and girl and older person can be shown to be standing under a tree of test. Destiny is deciding now by one's attitude toward God. The chances of a happy outcome are better and worse than those of Adam. We are because of an hereditary predisposition to a bad choice. Better, because of the provisions of mercy. Where sin abounds, grace much more abounds. Even now God's voice is ringing. "Son, daughter, give me thine heart! One does not need to win the whole gamut of sin to be lost. Merely declining to obey God is enough to exclude one from his presence. Picture the approach of the first night of the evening of their experience was wearing away: the twilight hour when retrospection is natural; when one wants to be assured of some strong safeguard; when Adam and Eve were feeling lost or when the Heavenly Father sought his erring children. He has been doing so ever since. So, if the sinner feels a quickening of conscience, a stirring of desire, it is God at work and in the most opportune hour. It is the supreme dictate of practical wisdom to know one's opportunity, and improve it. "It is a side light on John Wesley's character that he once preached to an antipathetic and opulent congregation a sermon that quite matched its text. The generation of vipers how can ye escape that damnation of hell? and when rebuked by a sinner, who said: "Sir, such a sermon would have been suitable in Billingsgate, but it is unsuitable here!" his answer was: "If I had been in Billingsgate my text would have been: 'Behold the Lamb of God (not taken away) the sin of the world.' The circumstance reveals the evangelist's characteristics of fearlessness and pity; easy task to thunder at the poor and weak, quite another to call to repentance the powerful to the book! "The story of Eden is an oriental picture, a Syrian poem. It is an Old Testament counterpart of one of Jesus' New Testament parables. It is not history, nor literal fact. But for all that it cannot be laughed out of court. It is true. It is an accurate record of an antipathetic and opulent generation of evil, not in the first man, but in every man until the end of time. Each human being has his paradise, his tree of life. Any Eden lost may be regained.

THE LURE OF THE WORLD The term "world" in this instance does not mean Nature. Not to love it would be failure in appreciation of the Divine gift. Nor does it mean the human beings with whom one is surrounded; for to love them is a matter of Divine command. It means the practices and pursuits which are palpably inimical to the ways and thoughts which God approves. Lust of the flesh and "eyes" and "pride" do not come from God and certainly do not lead to him. And these are evanescent. They "pass" but he who does God's will "abides."

Mrs. Ward On Visit to France Is Deeply Impressed by Americans

By MRS. HUMPHRY WARD.

In Europe, while we waited for America to make its army ready, the feverish anxiety for men grew steadily stronger. Who knew what the coming spring campaign would bring forth? The French army during 1917 had passed through that "depression month" of which I have spoken in an earlier letter.

Would a country which had borne such a long and terrible ordeal of death and devastation be capable of another great effort during the coming year, whatever might be the heroic patriotism of her people? One heard of the enormous preparations that America was making in France, that America was making in France, that America was making in France, and the new docks, warehouses and railways, of the vast depots and splendid camps that were being laid out.

Then as we went to the American stream of eager and high-hearted youth flowing from Bordeaux eastward, column after column, regiment after regiment of men admirable in physique, fearless in danger and full of a laughing and bounding confidence in America's power to help and resolve to win—at least it seemed that the long horror of the war must be indeed coming to an end.

"Three thousand miles!" said the French villager or townsman to himself as he turned out to see them pass, "they have come to see their own rifles and their own boots. And America is the richest country in the world—and there are one hundred millions of them." Hope rose into flood and with it fresh courage to endure.

Not was the effect less marked on the British nation, which had not known invasion, or on the British army, for all its tith in itself. The actual evidence of the Americans in France, provided indeed a moral support to the two older armies, which was of incalculable value, and influenced the fighting qualities of both.

At Metz, I first came in contact with this "America in France," which history will mark on her coming page with all the emphasis that belongs to the new chapter in the ever-broadening tale of man.

It was in the shape of some Knights of Columbus pausing at Metz for a night on their way to Coblenz. We only exchanged a few words on the steps of the hotel, but I had time to realize the interest of this American Catholicism in Europe, following in the track of the war, and looking with its new world eyes at these old, old towns, these ancient churches in which they were at home yet not at home. At Strasbourg I saw no Americans that I can remember. It was not in their track. But our arrival at Nancy at midnight, very weary after a long day in the car, during which we had missed our way badly at one place, is linked in my recollection with the apparition of two young American officers just as we were being told for the third time that there was no room in the hotel to which we had driven up.

Should we really have to sleep in the car? There seemed to be not a single vacant bedroom in Nancy—and there had been snow showers during the day. But these two Americans heard from our French lieutenant that there were two English ladies in the car, and they came forward at once offering their rooms.

Luckily we found shelter elsewhere, but I shall not soon forget the kind readiness of the two young men and the strangeness of the whole scene. There we stood in the beautiful Place Stanislas that worked from Versailles built for the father-in-law of Louis Quinze.

A flickering moonlight touched the gliding of the famous gullies that pass the square and the only light in the wide space seemed to come from this one hotel taken by the American authorities for the use of their officers and their guests.

Next day we spent entirely in the American sector, between Nancy and Toul, where American road directions and signposts and line, newly built camps and depots for the American forces met us in all directions. A military policeman in a colored regimental uniform and a colored sergeant in a blue uniform, a strong, built, bronzed fellow dealing with the stream of military and civil traffic at cross roads in eastern France, with perfect ease and sang-froid. The astonishment and interest of this American occupation of a country so intensely and intimately national, so little concerned in ordinary times with any other life than its own as France, provincial France above all, never ceased to hold me as a visitor and as a student of the American sector; especially when darkness and moonlight returned, and again, as we passed through wrecked villages where a few chimneys of light here and there showed a shattered billow of smoke, the American M. P. on duty would emerge from the shadows, tall, courteous, self-possessed, to answer a question or show the way, and we left him behind, apparently the only human being under the French night in sole possession of the ruins round him.

AMERICANS CLEARED WOODS. But before darkness fell, during the central part of the day, we had crossed the southern lines of the convergent American attack on St. Mihiel. Trenches and wire fields and artillery positions had all belonged to the French battle zone before the Americans took them over, and there had been three fighting here by the French in 1915. But for three years the position had changed but little, till the newly formed first American army in September 1918, in the clearing of the salient.

We left the car near the village of Beaumont, and walked to the brow of the long ridge from which the American attack started. Standing among what had been the trenches we looked down at the ruins of the village of Melchrey below us, to the right we had before us the greater part of the American battlefield, Thiancourt in the far northeast to the northwest the height of Vignoulles the meeting point of the two converging American attacks, and in the near foreground the once heavily fortified Mont Sec. The American troops went over the parapet at 5 o'clock in the morning of September 12 and by the morning of September 13 the greater part of the salient had disappeared. In three more days the heights of the Meuse had been cleared and the foremost Americans were already within the fire of the fortified zone protecting Metz.

Pyramid of German helmets erected in New York to boost Victory loan.

The famous pyramids of old may be more historic but are not more interesting than the great pyramid just built on Park avenue, New York. It is composed of thousands of German helmets taken by the doughboys while beating back the foe. The Kaiser probably hoped these hats might reach the U. S. but on the heads of his men instead of the way they came. The pyramid was erected to boost the Victory loan. It is part of a Victory way and stands over fifty feet high.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Mrs. Graf Says Vinol Cured Her

Darlington, Pa.—"I suffered from bronchial asthma so badly I would often have to sit up half of the night or lean over the back of a chair, and so weak I could hardly walk across the floor. I had spent lots of money for different asthma medicines without help—but Vinol helped me so I sleep well, and am so well and strong I am doing all my work on the farm." Mrs. Emma Graf.

Vinol is a constitutional remedy which contains beef and cod liver peptides, iron and manganese phosphates and glucose phosphates. We strongly recommend Vinol. Smith Drug Co. Vinol is sold in Broadway by W. J. Smith and druggists everywhere.

P. S.—If you have skin trouble try Saxol Salve. Money back if it fails.

Man Saves Wife in Nick of Time

"My wife was unable to eat, even the lightest food, and had fallen away to a living skeleton. She could not even keep doctor's medicine on her stomach and was tortured with pain. On the recommendation of a friend I bought a bottle of MAY'S Wonderful Remedy and she is all right now and has gained forty pounds." It is a simple, harmless preparation from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. J. P. Baker and Druggists everywhere.

WHO'S WHO in the Day's News

Mr. Lloyd George had been chancellor of the exchequer for six years when the European war cloud suddenly burst. By general consent, the prompt measures which he took at the treasury enabled the fabric of British credit to stand the unexpected shock of the war successfully.

When early in 1915 it was found that the supply of munitions was utterly inadequate he threw all his energies into this task of rallying the knowledge of the West, which he accomplished by his successful administration of the war.

At the end of 1916, however, he became so disgusted with the conduct of the war that he sent in his resignation. Mr. Asquith left office, and Mr. Lloyd George became prime minister at once. He was elected to the House of Commons in 1906, and when hostilities ceased and a general election was held the statesman who had weathered the storm was confirmed in power by the most overwhelming vote of confidence in British history.

Stretto seemed to be woven into the very being of Lloyd George. He was only 27 years old when in 1890, he fought a fierce battle at Carnarvon Boroughs. It was at that time, a Conservative seat, but this young Liberal succeeded in capturing it by the narrow margin of 18 votes. In the House of Commons he found his natural arena.

It was not, however, until the outbreak of the South African war that he became a really national figure. He took up the line of resolute opposition to the war, and attacked the government, both in the House and in the country.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, May 9, 1879.—Miss Minnie Guernsey of this city, in attendance at the School of Oratorical Instruction at the Boston university, has been elected by the faculty and class of that school to represent it at the annual commencement next month. This is an honorary "first honor" and speaks for itself of the conscientious study which the fair recipient has done. The lady's many friends in Janesville will hear with much pleasure of this fact.

The improvements still continue at Lapping's hall. Four hundred new opera chairs have been received and are being placed. The chairs are very handsome and attractive, well, and make a marked improvement in the appearance of the hall. The walls have been newly painted and the whole hall made as clean and attractive as when freshly built. Other improvements are to be made, and it will soon rank with any hall of a city this size in the state.

PLYMOUTH, May 8.—T. H. Lantz and men of Hanover are working on W. A. Royce's tenant house this week.

Carl Borkenhuugen left for Evansville, Friday, to join the band in Hall's circus. If he likes it he expects to be gone all summer.

Evening services will be held at the M. E. church Sunday. It has been decided that hereafter when evening services are held there will be no afternoon service.

Nathan Royce ran a rusty nail into his foot, striking the nerve, so that he is not able to use his foot.

Friday evening Mrs. A. C. Rinehimer was pleasantly surprised by about 50 relatives and friends, the occasion being her birthday. A supper was served and all report a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Perkins, Newark, spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rinehimer.

WILLOWDALE, May 8.—The basket social which was to have been held last week was postponed until Friday evening of this week.

Frank Lichtfus has returned to his home, having received his discharge from the army.

Michael Mooney spent Tuesday at Evansville.

Miss Frances Condon was quite ill and the school was closed two days of last week on that account.

Leo and Brose Mooney have arrived in Boston and expect to reach Camp Grant at the end of this week.

HOLDS MOST DANGEROUS OFFICE IN U. S.; HE OPENS BOMBS SENT TO NOTED MEN

Owen Eagan holding bomb sent to Governor Sprout of Pennsylvania in left hand and one sent to J. P. Morgan in right hand.

When the recent wholesale bomb plot to kill a score of leading Americans was unearthed in New York it was necessary, of course, to open the bombs inside the packages mailed to the intended victims. The bombs were taken to Owen Eagan. As chief bomb inspector of the New York police department he has become a wizard at dissecting infernal machines which, if not handled the proper way, would blow him to pieces. One of the bombs, like the two he is holding, blew off the hands of a negro maid when she opened one of the mailed packages, which was sent to ex-Senator Hardwick of Georgia.

Wooten Will Steam 'Em Across for Beloit, Sunday

By George McManus.

ELDERED OR BICK WILL PERFORM FOR JANESVILLE

BY KID BIFF

The Beloit Fairy apprentices are coming to Janesville Sunday. The complete line-up will be announced after practice tonight. Who will start the game on the mound for the Janes, Eldred or Bick? The answer is in the hands of the voters. The Janes will be given a chance to toss the game. Eldred may also be in the line-up.

Against the fast Beloit crew, Manager Murphy will throw in the best men he can find in Janesville. The complete line-up will be announced after practice tonight. Who will start the game on the mound for the Janes, Eldred or Bick? The answer is in the hands of the voters. The Janes will be given a chance to toss the game. Eldred may also be in the line-up.

Practice was held at the fair grounds last night with a dozen men out. Bill Miller and Davis, a couple of returned service men, showed up as cracking good infielders. Chick us cracking good infielders. The team is in need of some sluggers. Murphy will give every man a chance to show his knowledge of the game.

Practice Again Tonight. Although it was a little cold to do many throwing, the boys remained out there until dark going through some fast fielding and batting practice. Chief Murphy was there to direct them.

Practice will be held again tonight, beginning at 6:30. Every man who has any reason to believe that he is a baseball player is urged to come out. The team is in need of some sluggers. Murphy will give every man a chance to show his knowledge of the game.

Apprentices Line-up. Here is the line-up that Manager Murphy has sent to Murphy. Look 'em over:

Oleson, cf.
Licht, 1b.
Torman, p.
Haldeman, 3b.
Paschke, 2b.
Hertzfeldt, c.
Kuchner, ss.
Wright, lf.
Wooten, p.
Hogan, utility.

The ability of Oleson and Jim Wooten is well known to local fans, both having played here several times before. Wooten has lots of smoke and has got a head which makes him a dangerous hitter. He is a discharged Company L soldier, also has lots of stuff and may break into the game to relieve Wooten, in case the Janes get too free with their hits.

The infield is made up of youngsters who are all comers and who have played together for the past three seasons. Hertzfeldt, who played in the outfield, is considered one of the best amateur backstops around this neck of the woods.

Several New Features. Manager Murphy is today announcing several new features which ought to be going better than ever. First, he is going to start the game at 3 o'clock instead of 2:30, so fans will have plenty of time to get their Sunday dinner. Second, he is going to charge admission, but one price that will include grandstand, war tax and everything. This will eliminate crowds getting on the playing field off their base line. And third—this is best of all—he is going to let all kids under 12 years of age into the game free. The grandstand oughtn't be packed.

COLTS WIN AGAIN; MEET FAIRIES TONIGHT

Clauser's unbeatable Colts will still be all comers. Last night they defeated Dorry's Pick-ups by 51 pins at the East Side alleys. They were scheduled to meet Briggs' Giants, but this crew failed to show up, evidently scared out by the Colts' victory at Beloit the night before, so Dorry's Pick-ups were taken on for a game.

Made hit the wooden soldiers for a contest of 36 for high. Tonight the Colts will meet Beloit Fairies No. 1 team at the East Side alleys. The Fairies threaten to break the winning streak of Clauser's going.

Yanks Expect Thormahlen To Star

Herb Thormahlen.

There was every reason to believe that Herb Thormahlen, Yankee rookie, would prove one of the hurling sensations of the majors last season. Then an attack of tonsillitis and later an injury to his knee made him unfit for effective work after June. As it was, he finished with a record of seven victories and three defeats. He is fit as a fiddle this spring, reports say. Miller Huggins is confident Herb is in for a great year.

MITCHELL PICKED TO WIN OVER DUNDEE AT MILWAUKEE TONIGHT

BY KID BIFF

If Richie Mitchell puts the dream punch over on Johnny Dundee at Milwaukee tonight, that will be the advance hope of his brother-manager, Billy. He will have succeeded in a job which Benny Leonard has been unable to accomplish in three attempts twice over the time limit and once over six stanzas.

Richie's only encounter with Leonard landed him in sleepy town after seven rounds of terrific battling. Many light critics blame the loss of the battle to the advice Richie got from his seconds. However that may be, the blonde streak of lightning has not stopped to repine but has gamely fought his way back up the pugilistic to the round from which he was displaced.

His recent knockout of Johnny Schaefer, best of the middle west youngsters, and his terrific lighting of Eddie Pinkham, coast lightweight champion, have stamped him as still to be considered as a possible wearer of the crown in his division.

The fact that Leonard has promised him a rematch, should be best Johnny Dundee in their ten round go at popular prices in the Milwaukee auditorium, tonight under the auspices of the Green City Athletic club, adds particular interest to a scrap which should prove one of the sensations of the season.

Young Dennis and Joe Dawson, the new lightweight sensation and Harry Shuster and Dennis O'Keefe will furnish two ten-round preliminaries.

Boats John "Has Been." La Crosse, May 9.—Two more familiar upper Mississippi river steamboats, pioneers of the one time fleet of carriers which plied the stream from St. Louis to St. Paul, have joined the squadron of vessels which will no longer be seen in these waters.

The Percy Swann and the Alice F. were sold during the week to the Illinois Boat and Barge Company and will be used during the coming summer for hauling silica on the Illinois river to St. Louis. They carry other bits of evidence of the declining traffic on the upper Mississippi, a traffic which may be revived during the

YOUR idea as to style and choice of leather can be realized in our carefully selected stock. Smart and distinctive models for young men—roomy and foot form shapes for those who demand comfort as well as style.

Each model is moulded over an individual "O'Donnell" last. They are cut from the "heart of the hide" and constructed by workmen who strive to give each shoe that custom-made individuality so much sought in all wearing apparel.

The first time you slip your foot into an O'Donnell shoe, it feels fine; and the longer you wear it the better you'll like it. They're reasonably priced, and remember—the cost of shoes is not the price per pair, but the cost per day's wear.

It will place you under no obligation if you allow us to show you the season's latest styles of O'DONNELL SHOES.

Sgt. Dan Healy With Engineers

SERGT. DAN HEALY

Sgt. Dan Healy, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Healy, Chicago, but formerly of Janesville, has arrived in this country and when last heard from was stationed at Camp Devens, New Jersey. Sgt. Healy enlisted with the 13th engineers, a railroad regiment. After his arrival in France he was transferred to the 14th engineers, and was assigned to the 1st company. He was in the front and taking sick and wounded back to the rear. Some of his experiences are remarkably interesting. In his last letter to his mother from France, he writes:

"Dear Mother:—How is everything at home? I suppose things are booming in all lines of business, but according to a card just received from the old friend business is very poor on the railroad. Well, mother, we just arrived at St. Millam; it is about 25 miles from Bordeaux and we are now waiting for our ships. Bordeaux will be our place of embarkation. We would have been billeted at Bordeaux, but have been sent to the front. We are waiting for our ships, and all camps around here are packed with men going home, the whole country is filled with soldiers waiting for ships. It seems funny to go back to the same place that I landed at. I landed at Bordeaux on the 25th of March last. We left New York on the 14th and for there were some sure sick days for me. This elixir in the Chateau Thierry area, since I left this town a year ago."

Describes Trip
"We had some trip down from Verdun. It took five days. We used 100 cars, two big American box cars pulled by American engines. One sees many more American cars than we do. Those of the French are ordinary box cars, in the simple plain, ordinary box cars, with straw on the floor for beds, and 32 men to the car. We were very comfortable as each car had a stove and we enjoyed our long journey from the front very much. It seems like a great treat to get back out of the war zone again and away from everything that looks like war, and all we are waiting for now is the ship and the word to go. I understand that there are about 60,000 troops in this section around Bordeaux waiting for embarkation. We can get little information as to the date of our sailing, so we will have to just wait and make the best of it."

Went Argonne Insignia
"I hope that you get the pictures from Monte Carlo of myself and the chances are that you will not notice the big 'A' on the soldier that stands for Argonne. All the troops that took part in the fight at the Argonne wear that insignia. It was the biggest battle that our troops participated in, and I was in it from the start to the finish. I was also in all the big battles. I was in the Chateau Thierry drive from the 14th of July until the 1st of September, and have also been on all the fronts starting from the British at Arras and including the Argonne, Meuse, Marne and Verdun. I was in it all up with the Argonne push, which was the hottest of all."

"Well, mother, all we want now is the ships and we will be loading on them. I am in fine health and never felt better in my life. Will write to the rest soon. I have only received one letter from you in five months, so will sure be glad when we pull in the old U. S. A. Will close wishing you all the best of luck."

"TWAS FUN," BUT HE BALKS AT BEING SENT TO RUSSIA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Hammond, Ind., May 9.—It was lots of fun and not without profit to a sort, being a Bolshevik leader in East Chicago where nothing could really come of it, but—

Mike Silverman broke down and cried like a baby in court today when threatened with deportation to a country where he could live in the actuality of Bolshevism.

"Don't send me to Russia, I love the United States," he pleaded, as the judge rushed to his eyes and seeped into his whiskers. Mike also renounced Bolshevism in all its forms, but was nevertheless held for trial as an undesirable alien.

GERMANS PREDICT TREATY WOULD MEAN ECONOMIC DEATH

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, May 9.—The German delegates to the peace congress are considerably divided among themselves in their views on the peace terms submitted by the allied and associated powers. It was intimated today by a high British authority, a Reuters statement says.

Calls Treaty "Mailed Fist"
Berlin, Thursday, May 8.—Premier Hirsch, speaking in the Prussian national assembly today characterized the peace terms as representing a purely "mailed fist" peace which "would mean slavery for the fatherland and fresh bloodshed for Europe."

"There is only one immediate solution—peace with Russia and the use of bolshevik troops for Germany," Herr Gelsberg, one of the German delegates at Versailles is quoted as declaring.

The Frankfurt Gazette says:
"We are at the graveside of right. The only doubt is whether it also means the graveside of the German nation. Never has murder been committed in more courteous form or with more cynical equanimity. The German reply will have to consider that the draft deviates from Mr. Wilson's 14 points" as far as the east is from the west."

Belgian Satisfied
Paris, Thursday, May 8.—Interviews with representatives of countries whose territories are affected by the treaty are published in the Temps. Paul Hymans of Belgium declares he is generally satisfied.

Danish representatives express satisfaction with the disposition of Schleswig Holstein but express surprise that the boundaries of territories which will be called upon to decide their own destiny were fixed considerably further south than either the Danish government's parliamentary delegates or the delegates of the Schleswig Danes had proposed at the peace conference.

Czecho-Slovak Satisfied
Dr. Benes, the Czecho-Slovak foreign minister, voices his satisfaction. It is generally believed the Germans will answer the delivery of the peace treaty by proposals relative to certain phases of the document. A commission will examine the German answer and if modifications are necessary the Germans will be notified.

It is expected that in this rejoinder the enemy will be allowed four or five days to agree definitely to the whole treaty. It is therefore probable that from 25 to 30 days will elapse before the pact is finally signed.

Discusses Consequences
London, May 9.—In a review of German opinion on the terms of peace, telegraphed here, Reuters Berlin correspondent says that a remark heard on all sides in Berlin last night was that the people are discussing the consequences of a refusal by Germany to sign the treaty. "President Wilson" continues the correspondent "is particularly the object of criticism, his so-called weakness evoking indignation, although there are many who base their hopes upon him."

War Treaty Impossible
According to the Zeitung Am Mittag, all parties, from the extreme left to the extreme right regard the treaty as impossible. The Berlin Chamber of Commerce, Herr Mondelsohn, says the first impression is a crushing one but he is hopeful that the enemy may finally discharge her obligations if she remains economically sound.

Director Gutmann of the Dresden bank expresses himself as convinced that the peace proposals, unless they are altered, mean Germany's absolute ruin.

HUMAN BONES FOUND CALCINED IN VILLA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, Thursday, May 8.—Calcined human bones are said to have been discovered by the police in the villa at Gambass owned by Henry Landry who is being held on suspicion of having murdered several women who have recently disappeared. According to the police, Landry used a furnace heated by some method as yet unknown to burn the trunks of his victims and destroyed their limbs in the fire places of his villa.

One of the most important discoveries made in the investigation has been a mass of stones piled against a wall of the villa. These stones evidently belong to a furnace and clinging to them, it is said, were found bits of melted glass in which were pieces of bones which physicians have declared to be human.

MORE WISCONSIN TROOPS ARE HOME

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
New York, May 9.—The Great Northern arrived from Erest today with the 125th infantry, less the third battalion, 75 officers and 2,002 men and 6300 infantry brigade headquarters, two officers and 21 men, all of the 32nd division (Michigan and Wisconsin former national guards) and 750 sick and wounded. Brig. General Wm. H. Snodgrass, Jr., commander of the 63rd, was aboard.

Nearly two thousand 82nd division drafted troops of Georgia, Alabama and Florida arrived on the Santa Cecilia.

The Kentuckian, also from Bordeaux, brought 23 officers and 1,831 men, all units of the 82nd division.
